ACCUSE LEWIS OF MAKING A "FALSE CASE"

Bituminous Coal Operators Flatly Disagree With Claims of Chief of Mine Workers

"RECORDS DISTORTED"

Washington, March 18—(P)—Bituminous coal operators today accused John L. Lewis of "deliberately" trying to make a "false case" in his demand for a miners' health and welfare fund.

Opening their case against Lewis' demands for wage increases and other benefits for 400,000 coal miners, two representatives of the coal operators flatly disagreed with the claims the chief of the United Mine Workers has made thus far in the coal wage conference.

Harry M. Moses, a member of the operators' negotiating committee, speaking for captive mines owned by steel companies, declared:

"We deny your accusations, and no this record charge you with having attempted deliberately to create by understandable design a false case upon which to rest your royalty or welfare demand upon this conference."

Lewis last week emphasized demands that the industry set up a miners' health and welfare fund. Pressing this, he soft-pedaled his general proposal for increased wages and a shorter work week.

Moses said that the special welfare and hospitalization committee of the United Mine Workers, which reported last week on a survey of the industry, had made an "ex parte report" designed to "distort the records."

The UMW committee accused the industry of neglect and failure to enforce safety precautions and of causing the death of 28,000 miners and the injury of more than one million others in mine accidents in the last 14 years.

Moses said the UMW report was a "welter" of "unsustained and inaccurate statistics, half truths and partial quotations."

Preceding Moses was Charles O'Neill, official conference industry spokesman, summarizing the economic factors involved. O'Neill urged that the UMW complete a new working contract with a "minimum of friction and no work stoppage."

O'Neill, a former UMW member, criticized what he said was government interference in labor-management relations in the industry.

The mine owners called a long weekend recess in the six-day old wage conference to draft their reply to the United Mine Workers' mine generalized contract proposals as well as Lewis' accusations that they were responsible for deaths and injuries resulting from mine hazards.

O'Neill would not disclose how much time he planned to take.

Lewis devoted all of last week to his case in support of a health and welfare fund, improved safety and compensation provisions, and a shorter week at higher pay rates. He also is asking for "adjustment of the controversy" over unionization of foremen, which brought on a strike last October.

Kai-Shek Praises General Marshall

Chungking, March 18—(P)—General Marshall's work in helping China attain peaceful national unification was praised today by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek as reports circulated that Chiang too, might soon visit America.

General Marshall now is in the United States to report to President Truman on his work as a special envoy to China.

Chiang's tribute came as a prelude to the closing session of the Kuomintang (National Party) congress.

Meanwhile, Chinese government control of the great Manchurian city of Mukden, evacuated by the Russians, was strengthened with the arrival of divisions from two armies, some of them U. S. trained and equipped.

Increasing Communist activity along the railroad between Mukden and the Manchurian capital, Changchun, was reported, and a committee of three continued to consider sending truce terms to Manchuria.

End of All Price Controls On Manufactured Goods Asked

Washington, March 18—(P)—The National Association of Manufacturers called upon congress today to end price controls on all manufactured goods, contending that OPA is "fostering inflation, enabling black markets to flourish" and slowing down production.

Robert R. Wason, president of NAM, opposed a year's continuation of OPA as asked by President Truman in a statement prepared for the house committee.

Assailing what he termed OPA's propaganda campaign to "frighten" the country into a new lease on life for price controls, Wason declared:

"Inflation can never be stopped in this country unless we stop creating fear in the minds of our

'Home, Sweet Home'—A Doll House

Herbert Anderson, discharged from the Army last September, finally found a home in Minneapolis recently—a playhouse built for a three-year-old girl in 1900. The miniature dwelling has electric lights, a kitchen range, a sink, a fireplace and a full set of bathroom fixtures. Anderson and his wife are pictured, above, inspecting the kitchen cupboard. The veteran says he'll live in the rented haven if he has to walk around on his knees.

Decision of Shroyer Holds Political Spotlight In State

Harrisburg, March 18—(P)—John U. Shroyer, secretary of highways, indicated today, after a conference with Governor Martin, he intended to remain in the race for the Republican nomination for governor in opposition to the organization-slanted candidate, Attorney General James H. Duff.

This is the last day that candidates may withdraw their nominating petitions at the state election bureau.

Asked by reporters as he left Martin's office if there would be any developments in his candidacy before the 5 p. m. deadline tonight, Shroyer replied "no" and declined to elaborate the statement.

He left immediately for Washington, Pa., Governor Martin's home city, to make a speech to-night which the governor's office described as "non-political." Shroyer previously had said he would discuss the department's highway program in speeches at Washington tonight and at Beaver Falls tomorrow.

Both Governor Martin and Shroyer declined to comment on the conference today.

Shroyer, who declared his candidacy before the G. O. P. organization slanted Attorney General James H. Duff for the gubernatorial nomination, has stated he would not withdraw "under any circumstances," apparently taking cognizance of administration pressure for him to step aside in the interest of party harmony.

Shroyer has booked speeches to-night on the highway department's building program at Washington, Pa., Governor Martin's home town—and at Beaver Falls tomorrow.

On the Democratic side, the Dauphin county court has been asked to remove the name of James E. Dougherty, Delaware county commissioner, from the primary ballot. He is U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey's only opponent for the party nomination for a third term.

The suit, filed in the name of James Patrick Clancy, Harrisburg, challenged the Dougherty's nominating petitions for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Clancy's petition filed Saturday, questioned the sufficiency of legal signatures on Dougherty's petitions in York in Lancaster county. Frank H. Hean, counsel for Clancy, said that rejection of the petitions from one of the counties would remove Dougherty's name from the primary ballot.

Dougherty and Charles M. Morrison, secretary of the county, were given until March 21 to show why the petitions should not be rejected.

people through irresponsible statements; assure the public that they will get the goods they want at reasonable prices by taking OPA shackles off manufactured goods; and bring the federal budget into balance and thereby end to the growth of the inflationary danger which comes from continuous government deficits."

He termed "false" the administration claim "that only OPA stands between the people and disastrous inflation."

Anticipating this attack, Chester Bowles, economic stabilizer, criticized NAM as an "irresponsible pressure group" in an earlier appearance before the banking committee, now considering legislation to continue price controls, rent ceilings and consumer subsidies.

Retiring Director General Opens Fourth Session of Council At Atlantic City

REVIEWS OPERATIONS

Atlantic City, March 18—(P)—Director general Herbert Lehman of UNRRA said today that failure to furnish relief for the world's hungry millions "can well sow the seeds of further armed conflict."

In an address prepared for UNRRA's fourth council session, the retiring chief of history's greatest mission of mercy said that "we have demonstrated that the men and women of many nations can work together in harmony for the common good of mankind."

"The organization is not perfect," Lehman added, "nor have the results been perfect, but the United Nations should recognize the basic fact international cooperation is possible and can be effective."

Lehman told the delegates from 47 delegates that UNRRA had accomplished the following:

1. By the end of March more than 7,000,000 tons of supplies will have been shipped "and the scale of our operations is increasing daily."

2. Since the first of September, approximately 725,000 displaced persons have been repatriated with the help of military authorities.

3. "Were it not for the present food crisis, UNRRA could undoubtedly have claimed an even greater record during the battle of the winter of 1945-46."

Lehman acknowledged that "despite vigorous efforts by the administration, it has not been possible to keep out of UNRRA's Camps for political refugees 'many, who, it is believed, may be collaborators.'"

"Let there be some misunderstanding," he added, "I desire to state emphatically that the responsibility for determining who among the displaced persons are collaborators x x x rests squarely with the Allied military authorities."

Lehman said that no accurate estimate was possible now on the proportion of displaced persons who are "not prepared to return to their homes."

The United States served firm notice on delegates that it did not contemplate that UNRRA should continue beyond the end of this year in Europe and the middle of 1947 in Asia.

STEEL FIRMS SIGNING

Pittsburgh, March 18—(P)—The CIO-United Steelworkers announced 581 steel firms employing 657,000 workers have signed contracts granting "18½ cents an hour or better" wage increases. It added some 88,000 workers remain on strike in 547 plants not yet signed.

Corporation Asks Injunction Defined

Pittsburgh, March 18—(P)—Attorneys for the Westinghouse Electric Corporation today asked Allegheny county court to define the terms of an injunction granted last week which forbade mass picketing at the firm's Pittsburgh plants.

Company counsel also requested the courts to stipulate the number of pickets permitted and to set an approved spacing between pickets. A hearing on the requests will be held tomorrow, by Judge Walter P. Smart.

Meanwhile, striking members of the United Electrical Workers (CIO) announced plans for a parade Friday in which unionists expect to gather at the city-county building in a demonstration against limited picketing.

At 2 p. m. today CIO pickets swarmed about the gates of the east Pittsburgh plant, turning back without violence a few supervisory employees who sought to enter.

Judge Smart issued an injunction forbidding mass picketing last week on orders of the state supreme court.

HIKE IN RELIEF CASES

Harrisburg, March 18—(P)—The Department of Public Assistance said that unsettled economic conditions resulted in 4,600 individuals or family groups applying for relief during February, as compared with 7,800 during December.

In Chester and Delaware counties the increases approached 500 percent; Erie, 400 percent; Mercer and Beaver approximately 200 percent; and in Northampton, Montgomery, Mifflin and York counties the increase was over 150 percent.

PROBE SHOTGUN DEATH

Tarentum, March 18—(P)—Allegheny county detectives today were investigating the death of James Kessinger, 21, of Natrona, who died of a gunshot wound yesterday in Allegheny Valley hospital.

Hospital attendants said the young man was shot accidentally during a target practice.

RUSSIAN-AMERICAN RELATIONS TENSE OVER IRANIAN CRISIS

GOERING ON STAND IN HIS OWN DEFENSE

Number One Defendant at War Crimes Trials Says No Offensive Against U. S. Considered

ATTACK PLANS DENIED

By NOLAN NORGAARD
Nuernberg, Germany, March 18—(P)—Hermann Goering testified before the international military tribunal today that the Nazis never considered any offensive action against the western hemisphere.

The number one defendant at the war crimes trial here, taking the witness stand in his own defense for the fifth day, also asserted that Nazi efforts to make an economic penetration in South America were "unavailing in the face of competition by the United States and Britain."

"Threatening the American continent was never spoken of," Goering declared, adding:

"Even if Germany had completely dominated her small fleet and lack of bombers would have forbidden any aggressive action against the United States."

Goering's denial of the existence of any Nazi plans to attack the western hemisphere came during questioning by Martin Horn, attorney representing Joachim von Ribbentrop, who strove to show that the former foreign minister actually had been unable to guide Hitler in the determination of German foreign policy.

To questions on prosecution charges that the Nazis conspired to gain domination of Europe, Goering replied that "conspiracy may be variously interpreted."

"In the sense that it would mean men would plot secretly and in the dark about secret plans—that, of course, never took place," he said.

"In the sense that the fuhrer had a comprehensive conference and of them decided on certain things—what you mention conspiracy only in that connection."

Apparently striving, as in preceding days on the witness stand, to shoulder as much responsibility as possible for the Nazis policies, Goering declared that "no one else worked with the fuhrer as closely as I. Only the fuhrer and myself could conspire. No one else was concerned."

He explained that he referred only to the period before his relations with Hitler deteriorated, in the closing days of the war.

Girl Missing From School Is Found Safe

Detroit, Mar. 18—(P)—The week-long search for 16-year-old Suzanne Froedter ended today when police officers announced the Milwaukee school girl had been found in a flat in suburban Highland Park.

Suzanne, whose father, Kurtis R. Froedter, heads the Froedter Grain and Malt Co. in Milwaukee, had been missing from a school in Madison, Wis., since last Monday.

Announcement of a country-wide search for her was made over a national radio hook-up last night.

Sgt. Noel Larsen of the Highland Park police said the girl told officers she came here voluntarily and had been working in a candy factory since Wednesday.

According to Larsen, Suzanne was found on the information of a man who heard the broadcast and told officers the girl's description fitted that of a young woman who

Krug Takes Office As Interior Sec'y

Washington, Mar. 18—(P)—Julius A. Krug, took office today as secretary of the interior, and immediately announced that Oscar L. Chapman would be nominated undersecretary.

Chapman, a 49-year-old Coloradoan who has served as acting secretary since the resignation of Harold L. Ickes, has been an assistant secretary almost 13 years.

Krug took the oath of office before a crowd which filled the department's big auditorium.

In a speech which followed, the 38-year-old secretary, last chairman of the War Production Board said that during his administration "we'll be guided scrupulously by the will of the people as expressed through congress."

Krug said President Truman had authorized him to announce the nomination of Chapman to the post vacant since Abe Fortas resigned to enter private law practice.

Full Conservation of Food Supplies Urged By President

Washington, March 18—(P)—The White House said today that President Truman is asking for the conservation of vital foods rather than the elimination of public dinners during the world emergency.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross made public the following telegram to Arthur J. Hartnett, executive secretary of the Hotel Association of Washington:

"The president directs me to say, that he is not suggesting the elimination of public dinners as such but rather the fullest possible conservation of food supplies needed for the relief of hunger throughout the world."

"Banquets in which menus consist of cereals, fats and oils to the full extent asked by the Famine Emergency Committee and conserve types of foods suitable for shipment aboard are in cooperation with the food conservation program."

Hartnett had asked Mr. Truman for clarification of his statement respecting "mass dinners" in connection with the cancellation of a banquet scheduled here by the Collier's Congressional Awards Committee.

"We are receiving many inquiries indicating that the public has construed my statement to mean that the White House wishes no banquets held during the next 120 days," Hartnett wired.

He added this was a meaning hotel officials felt sure "the president did not intend."

Back-to-Work Movement Cuts Number of Idle to 558,000

As General Electric employees went back to the job of building refrigerators and other consumer goods today, local issues stood in the way of return of General Motors workers in about a third of the 98 GM plants.

Announcing its 62-day strike had ended, the CIO United Electrical Workers Union said last night its 100,000 members would start returning to General Electric plants.

Settlement of the GE dispute was on the basis of an 18½ cents hourly wage increase, the same raise accepted overwhelmingly by 30 of 51 CIO United Auto Workers units which approved a national settlement with General Motors Corp. The lone dissenter among 31 reporting was a local at Baltimore, Md., which turned thumbs down on the national settlement.

Besides the General Electric workers, today's back-to-work movement included 50,000 made idle for 20 weeks by a strike of machinists in San Francisco; 14,000 employees of Timken Roller Bearing Co. in Ohio, and 3,200 employees of the Oliver Corporation.

Equipment Concern with plants in South Bend, Ind., and Charles City, Ia.

These settlements cut the total of idle in labor disputes to 558,000 with the prospect that another 175,000 could be lopped off when the 175,000 General Motors employees return.

Even before the mass return to reconversion industries got fully underway, the Federal Reserve bulletin reported overall postwar production already is outstripping anything achieved in peacetime before, and predicted industrial production likely will expand this month to a new postwar level.

End of strikes in basic industries was a considerable factor. But with the solution of old labor problems, a new one loomed. John L. Lewis today was to get the mine owners' answer to Lewis' AFL United Mine Workers' contract demands.

LITTLE TOT KILLED IN TRAFFIC ACCIDENT

Mt. Pleasant, March 18—(P)—An automobile sidwiped another machine in this Westmoreland county community yesterday, fatally injuring two-year-old Betty Joyce Wilkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Wilkins of nearby Keokuk.

Police said the girl suffered a fractured skull when she was hurled against the windshield. Her mother received lacerations.

Woman Morooned on Bleak Island 14 Days is Rescued

Los Angeles, Mar. 18—(P)—Physically and mentally exhausted, Mrs. Bernice Brown of Van Nuys, Calif., was rescued by the U. S. coast guard yesterday from bleak, uninhabited Anacapa island, where she was marooned for 14 days after the wreck of a 50-foot fishing boat.

Her husband, 42-year-old Roy Brown, and their friend, John Barta, 38, who sailed with them out of Santa Monica Harbor on March 2 on a pleasure trip, are believed to have been drowned in the mountainous waves that sank their boat, the Nancy Lee.

Mrs. Brown, 43, managed to survive by hanging for hours to a floating gasoline drum.

"We ran into a heavy storm March 3," Mrs. Brown told her rescuers. "Our little boat was whipped around like a feather in a windstorm. Then a huge wave flooded the engine room, and with our power off, we had no chance."

"We cast off a small skiff. Barta and I climbed in when my husband was washed overboard. He managed to swim to the skiff but it capsized as he reached it."

When I came up I managed to swim to the fishing boat, which was now swamped, and got on the bow. But I was washed away as though I was a fly. When I came

Compromise Extension Of Draft Looms

Washington, March 18—(P)—Speaker Rayburn said today he is hopeful of house passage of legislation extending the draft act beyond the May 15 expiration date. Leaving a conference with President Truman, Rayburn told reporters "I am not very discouraged" over the prospects.

He said the president discussed selective service, appropriations and atomic energy legislation with his congressional "Big Four" at their regular Monday meeting.

The other members of the quartet are Senate Majority Leader Barkley (Ky.), Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.), president pro tempore of the senate and House Majority Leader McCormack.

The idea of a six-week compromise extension caught the fancy of some senators today as pressure grew for keeping the draft alive.

Selective Service now is due to expire May 15. The six-week period would carry it to July 1.

With the senate military committee set for a full dress review of the subject tomorrow, there were these developments:

1. Secretary of State Byrnes added his pleas to those of President Truman and top army officers when he told a New York audience Saturday night that this country needs military strength to support the principles of the United Nations. He said "the situation up again, both my husband and Barta were gone. I didn't see them again."

Tossed from the tops of giant whitecombs to the depths of the troughs, Mrs. Brown was struggling with sea water when she floundered to a gas drum. She hung on for hours until, at nightfall, she saw a big rock. With her strength almost gone, she still managed to swim to it and lay there exhausted until the next morning, when she struggled 300 yards to Anacapa island, 13 miles off Point Hueneme.

On Anacapa she might well have expected to starve, for it is not populated and there is no means of existence. Nevertheless, she found a hut once used by the navy, which contained precious emergency rations, barrels of rain water, blankets and a battery radio set.

In front of these surprising discoveries Mrs. Brown collapsed and for three days she was barely able to move enough to feed herself. She had been badly cut and bruised in the wreck of the boat.

Staggering to the beach, she built a signal fire on March 8, and she kept it lighted until she was rescued. On the radio she was able to keep track of the days,

DETAINING OF VICE CONSUL IS REGRETTED

Steady Stream of Reports of New Difficulties and Sensational Incidents Stir Capitals

PREMIER IS WARNED

Washington, Mar. 18—(P)—With whereabouts of three Russian combat columns, reported last week to be fanning out of Tabriz in Azerbaijan toward the Turkish border, Kurdistan along the Iraq frontier, and Tehran, was hidden today behind a tight Soviet security curtain.

An American embassy official said "unconfirmed Iranian reports" placed one column at Khoi, north of Lake Urmia and about 40 miles from the Turkish frontier.

The second force was last reported by a foreign source to be Bukhan, south of the lake and near the Azerbaijan-Kurdistan border.

The activity of the third column, last reported at Mianeh east of Tehran, was unreported here.

The rugged and isolated country into which the first two were last reported moving helped hide their activities.

Washington, Mar. 18—(P)—With a single week remaining until UNO's security council meets, the Iranian crisis neared the breaking point today—and Russian-American relations tensed precariously.

A steady stream of reports of new difficulties and sensational incidents in the strife-ridden middle eastern country brought these latest top developments.

1. The American vice consul at Tabriz, Robert Rossow, was detained here at a Red Army post last Friday. This was three days after the United States told the world that instead of pulling out of Iran Soviet forces were moving through Tabriz deeper into that country. The Russians expressed regret, and the state department here said it attaches no significance to the incident.

2. While little of what is happening in Tehran squeezes through the tight lid of secrecy, one report officially forwarded here came to light. It said the Russian diplomat in Tehran had warned Premier Ahmed Qavam es Sultaneh that Russia would consider it an unfriendly act for the Iranian government to reopen its case before the United Nations Security Council. There is no evidence, however, that the Iranian premier in any way has modified his earlier word to the United States government that Iran would present its case.

3. American officials' best estimate of the possibilities at the moment is that the Russians may try either to break Qavam's resistance or pull off a coup d'etat to put a new government in power. The immediate Soviet objective would be to get official Iranian authority to the presence of Red army troops in Iran. Those troops were supposed to have been withdrawn March 2, and the fact that they still remain is the key point in the entire Iranian crisis.

4. The tenor of American-Russian relations was set meanwhile by Secretary of State Byrnes with his assurance on the one hand that the American government does not intend to enter into military alliance with Britain and his insistence on the other that the United States must act immediately to maintain and strengthen its armed forces. To do this he called for extending the draft law beyond its May 15 expiration and the enactment of peacetime military training.

London, Mar. 18—(P)—Iranian embassy officials in London said today that Iran was prepared Progressive Vote To Rejoin G. O. P.

Portage, Wis., March 18—(P)—The Progressive Party of Wisconsin, a liberal organization founded 12 years ago, has decided to abandon its party identity and seek to carry out its policies in Republican ranks.

A decision to abandon the Progressive organization and rejoin the Republicans, which the Wisconsin group was organized in 1934, came at a state-wide conference of party members here Sunday after Sen. Robert M. La Follette, one of the Progressive party's founders and its titular head, recommended the action.

The vote to return to the GOP came after a stormy six-hour conference in which labor groups, supporting a move to have the progressives join the Democrats, and other minority groups fighting a losing battle to retain party identity, finally had to bow to the wishes of the majority who could see no future in their party.

BOY IS LOCATED

Officials from the sheriff's office and State Police barracks here were called to Endeavor last evening to assist in the search for seven year old Clair Norman Bhe, who had been missing from his home since about 10:30 a. m. Several searching parties were out in the vicinity of the family home in Hickory township, but that headed by Paul Smith, Jr., and Rudolph Harmon finally located the lad about five miles from home. He had, apparently, spent the whole day wandering in the woods with his two dogs and was none the worse for his experience.

Children Are Neglected Is The Charge

A charge of neglect of children, or their abuse, was filed against Marian Tripp, of Spring Creek, yesterday before Justice Eldred, warrants in the action being served by officers of the State Police from the Corry station, says the Corry Journal. It is understood that the children involved were three from the family of Mrs. McDonald, who was killed in a car-train crash several months ago near Ripley in which Tripp was driving the machine.

Charges were preferred by an older brother and sister of the children, possession of two of whom had already been obtained, while it was sought to secure a small boy also at the Tripp place. A hearing is scheduled today in the matter and it was thought likely that the charges might be dropped with the older children in the MacDonald family securing custody of the others. The older brother who preferred the charges has recently returned from service in the armed forces.

Car Struck Locomotive on Rail Crossing

Charles Lawson, R. D. 1, Warren, and his seven year old son, Keith Lawson had a narrow escape from serious injury last night about 8:30 when Mr. Lawson drove his car into the side of a locomotive at the Hohawk street crossing. The street here crosses the Pennsylvania railroad tracks and Mr. Lawson evidently did not see the train.

It was an east bound train and it was working on a siding. Due to this fact the lights at the crossing were not working as they only operate when a train is on the main tracks. The car was badly damaged in the crash.

Mr. Lawson escaped with bruises about one knee and a bump on the head while his son was bruised about the chest. Both were taken to the hospital in the Lutz ambulance. Examination showed their injuries were not serious and after strapping up the chest of the boy both were discharged and returned to their home.

THE STATE POLICE SAY:

Watch the blind intersection! At every intersection there should be some reduction in speed. This applies even to a car on a "through" street approaching an intersection where there is no obstruction to vision, the reason, for example, is that a car approaching from the opposite direction may suddenly turn left in front of you. All intersections should be considered as places of special hazards, and those that "look safe" but involve noticeable hazards are trouble-makers.

MOTOR CLUB MEETING

The membership roll of the Warren County Motor Club is rapidly nearing the 1,000 mark, it was disclosed at the meeting of the board of governors held Thursday evening at the Blue and White. A total of 887 members was reported as of February 28th. It was decided that the club would place an advertisement in the Warren High School Dragon. Attention of the members was called to the fact that the A. A. A. listing of the Munksgard Garage in the telephone book is incorrectly given as 955, when as a matter of fact the correct number is "94". A. A. Albaugh, president, was delegated to attend the conference of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation to be held at the Penn Harris hotel in Harrisburg Monday and Tuesday, April 15 and 16. Members of the board were reminded about the addition of two new garages for convenience of club members for road emergency service—The Dick Service station at Sugar Grove, and the Heenan and Amos garage at Tidoute.

THE MIRACLES OF COMMUNICATION

Pioneered by the Bell Telephone Laboratories

Jules Verne had a prophetic and eerie imagination.

The Bell System has the Bell Telephone Laboratories!

Here, among a maze of apparatus, instruments, and machinery, hundreds of scientists and engineers, using fundamental and applied research, discover, appraise, develop, and make practical fantastic, new miracles of communication.

These men dream of the future. Then they make their dreams come true.

Their one objective is to make communication ever better and better, ever faster and faster—and more economical—for you.

And one of the objectives of our $150,000,000 expansion program is to make available, as fast as we can, their many new developments.

Marvelous things are on the way, some of them in their earliest scientific stages. Others are ready for us, and you.

Long distance dialing, for example, is now a fact as operators dial direct from long distance switchboards to telephones in far-away places.

It will be possible to talk by telephone from automobiles, taxis, trucks, and buses.

If you're deaf, you'll learn to read "pictures of speech," the Laboratories' new electronic development.

A new cable—called coaxial—already shoulders an unheard of number of conversations simultaneously, and will play a stellar role in bringing television into your home.

Even before the war, Bell Laboratories engineers were experimenting extensively with radio waves—called microwaves—only a few centimeters long. The possibilities of microwaves are almost unbelievable.

It's our job to make all these new developments available to you . . . and the best news we have for you is that we are actually at work on all this today.

Here are the Three Objectives of our $150,000,000* EXPANSION PROGRAM

1. To end all waiting lists for telephone service.
2. To provide the people of this State—city people and farmers—with finer and finer telephone service.
3. To make available the many new developments in communication, pioneered by the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

*Part of the Bell System's two billion dollar Expansion Program.

THE BOY NEXT DOOR

The boy next door has come home. He's whistling up the street again. He's wearing gaudy neckties and romping with his dog. He's getting a civilian job and his uniform is in moth balls. He's through with war. It's all over. He's home!

But some of the boys next door aren't home, never will come home. Some will spend the rest of their lives in hospitals or return with their youthful vigor spent.

For the boys who did come home, those who can whistle and play with the dog, the American Red Cross rejoices with the nation. The Red Cross, with the nation, understands the depth of its responsibility to all the other young Americans who have sacrificed their strength to the common cause.

As a great peacetime organization which went to war when other peace-loving American civilians did, the Red Cross will follow through toward victory and devote itself greatly to the welfare of hospitalized and home-coming veterans; it will continue to offer services to the men and women still in uniform. It will be able to concentrate now on acts of peacetime mercy, on relief for war-caused suffering the world over.

This is your Red Cross, your opportunity to welcome home the boy next door, the boy in your own home, by buying a share in the board responsibilities of this post-war work in the world we all have sought through bloody years of battle. Give!

A JOB FOR MR. HOOVER

Herbert Hoover is not the most popular man in the United States. But however his political views may be regarded, few can quarrel with President Truman for sending his only living predecessor in the White House to survey Europe's food needs.

In World War I Mr. Hoover did an excellent job as wartime food administrator and, after the armistice, carried out the Allied relief programs in Europe. During World War II his experience was not utilized, and he labored vainly to persuade the western Allies that they should at least make an attempt to get food through to the hungry people of occupied countries.

Mr. Hoover's specific job will be to weigh the relief requirements of the various countries seeking our aid. It may be hoped that from his experience and humanitarian instincts there will also come some wise suggestions for speeding up our present relief program, which, at the moment, seems bungled and inadequate, as well as belated.

Hail to the Warren Dragons, champions of District Ten, on their triumph over the fast Sharpville Blue Devils on the Farrell court Friday evening by the close score of 33-32, in one of the most thrilling title games ever uncorked in the district. Our congratulations to the boys and their coaching staff, and an extra orchid for our own Dick Harris, captain of the team, and sports editor of The Times-Mirror, who put the game on ice in the last fifteen seconds with a one-handed push shot. It was a dramatic finish to a thrilling contest during which the Blue and White acquitted themselves in a manner that earned them the plaudits of every citizen, many of whom do not know the first rudiments of the cage game.

LENTEN SERMONETTE

By E. W. CHITESTER
Youngville

"A Man."—Isaiah 32:2.
During Lent our eyes are upon a MAN. Isaiah says "And a man shall be a hiding place from the wind, a covert from the tempest; as rivers of water in a dry place; as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." In Christ we have that MAN. He is set over against the things of life that are hard. He is the seed of the woman who is engaged in bruising the serpent's head. In many desert areas the only shelter from sand-laden winds and the noonday blasts of the sun is a rock. Rocks large enough to shelter one's head are sought. Moisture develops on the shaded side of the rock and the force of the wind is spent against the rock. To them men come in their distress and fatigue. Isaiah uses this desert picture to tell us about Christ. He is a great rock in a weary land, a hiding place from the wind, a covert from the tempest.

Mankind lives in the land of perpetual spiritual storms and personal distresses. The clash of contending forces makes the going hard. The heat of conflict wears the human spirit. This is true of all generations. Progress, if nothing else, stirs strife. No man escapes, no matter how serene his spirit. For no man liveth to himself and the clashes about the righteous man will cause him to seek for shelter and protection from the storms of life.

Ignorance, superstitions, doubts, error, untruth, cause the storms to rise. But there is a MAN! He is acquainted with our griefs and knows the burden of our sorrows. Temptation He has met and conquered. He walks even as we walk, yet without failure and without sin. He is our rock, our shelter, our hiding place, a covert indeed, even Christ.

And—"rivers of water"—not a trickle, not a stagnant pool, but rivers of water. Yes, and in a dry land, where most needed, where life depends upon it, where there is no other source—

If the Truth Were Known

Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — One of the all-too-few "blessings" of the war is that the United States will never again be wholly dependent on the natural rubber monopoly as to quantity or price of that material so vital to our modern way of life.

According to Rubber Manufacturers Association representatives, there will always be a demand for natural rubber, but our $700,000,000 synthetic rubber industry will always be a stopper to runaway prices and a sure cure for shortages.

Figures just released show the staggering development of the industry. In 1941 the United States used 775,000 long tons of natural rubber and only produced about 4,500 tons of synthetic.

In 1945 the consumption of natural rubber was only 105,400 tons; and the production of synthetics had mounted to nearly 700,000 tons.

Most of this (slightly over 600,000 tons of it) is what the industry now calls GRS (Buna-S) the general purpose rubber. The other two important ones were GRM (Neoprene) and GRI (Butyl).

WHAT has happened to the prices of these synthetics is far more significant in the world rubber picture. Until 1943, the prices established at the beginning of the program were maintained: 50 cents a pound for GRS, 65 cents for Neoprene and 33 cents for Butyl.

At the end of 1945 GRS was selling at 18½ cents a pound;

Neoprene at 27½ cents and Butyl at 15½ cents.

In pre-war days the price of natural rubber was running around 20 cents a pound. We are operating on a buying agreement with the British now at 20½ cents a pound. It is estimated that this year we will get 200,000 to 250,000 tons of natural rubber — about twice what we got in 1945.

The world supply of rubber is expected to run short for at least two more years, but by 1949 the world surplus is expected to be way up. Association officials say it will reach perhaps 1,000,000 tons.

THE future of synthetics is not easy to predict. There hasn't been one month since 1941 that research and new techniques haven't improved them.

In the meantime the cost of production of synthetics is still sinking, as methods improve. At present, GRS is being manufactured at 12 cents a pound (without considering plant amortization). Forecasts have already been made by association members that the day will come when GRS can be produced for 9 cents a pound, with plant amortization.

Manufacturers are willing to pay about 4 cents a pound more for natural rubber than synthetics since the former is much easier to process. When the differential gets over that, they turn to synthetics.

Nine-cent GRS would mean at least 13-cent natural. This is an important point for the future, because every 1-cent reduction in the crude price means $16,000,000 a year saving to the people of America.

BROADWAY

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK — Considerable speculation has attended the sudden emergence of Danny Thomas in the last few months as one of the most sought-after comics, not only in the cafe business, but in movie, stage-shows, radio — about everything except circuses and parlor frolics.

Despite the seemingly swift arrival into the $3,000-and-up-per-week salary class, Danny might have been a saloon smash hit much sooner if it weren't for the sly awareness of a saloon proprietor. Sitting around the Copacabana the other morning with Danny, Monte Proser, the Copacabana's owner; and Joey Jacobson, owner of Chicago's Chez Paree, I heard some highly diverting tales of Danny's past.

LIKE all cafe owners, Monte and Joey constantly are on the alert for new talent. A good comic is a bright commodity to have under contract since they're harder to locate than beautiful chorus babes. So when Monte and Joey heard about this young unknown Danny Thomas packing them in at an obscure Chicago cabaret, both boys decided to take a look.

Monte arrived in Chicago and was greeted by friends who entertained him in liquid fashion. The party took three days before Monte even got ready to see Danny perform. On the fourth day Monte discovered that Danny already had left Chicago and was appearing at a Detroit cafe called the Bowers.

So he went to Detroit. And since cafe owners have a national, though unofficial, fraternity, Monte was greeted in Detroit in similar bottle-y way. When he finally got to the Bowers, he was entertained in much the same manner by Frank Barbaro, the Bowers' owner. So, when time came for Danny's act, Monte was snoozing comfortably, if not exactly gracefully, at a ringside table.

"Truthfully, I was loaded," Monte said. "They finally woke me up for Danny's last number. I took a couple of drowsy looks at it, discovered he was doing a dialect bit and decided dialects were not for the Copacabana. Next day all I remembered was the dialect and my hangover. So I didn't sign him. Instead, he came to La Martinique and started stealing my customers. It made me a little cautious of out-of-town drinking ever since."

JOEY JACOBSON had equally discouraging experiences trying to see Danny work. He went several times to catch the act, but each time the proprietor of the club gave Danny some reason to do only one number, which was his worst, saying the cops were out front and didn't like blue material, which puzzled Danny mightily because he didn't think his stuff was so untidy.

"But it kept me from thinking he was anything but a routine comic," Joey now moans. "That smart guy hung onto Danny for three years. When I finally found out he was so good it cost me $2,500 a week. Now it'll cost me a lot more to bring him back—if I can get him."

Which probably explained why Monte and Joey both were wearing black ties that a.m.

Warren and vicinity were digging out of a terrific snowstorm which lasted for nearly twenty-four hours. The record storm left transportation and communication facilities badly crippled.

Several plans for the new high school grandstand have been submitted by the Portland Cement Company. Although the source of necessary funds has not been revealed, it is probable that money will be available.

Neal and Company, local plumbers, have contracted for a new place of business on Pennsylvania avenue between Oak and Elm streets. A new building, featuring a fine sheet metal department, will be erected.

Twenty out of twenty-five persons who applied were granted citizenship when they presented themselves before L. E. Fox, of the Erie office of the Department of Immigration.

abrightly or a COMMONPLACE BOOK awrongly

About this time last year, with the snows of Quebec around us and the bright fire of the Chateau before us, we were discussing French-Canadian attitudes with our black-robed friend, Abbe Paul Gosselin. The question of assimilation came up, and immediately we saw we had struck a very warm topic. "Assimilation," it soon appeared, is the bogie of all bogie-words to the French of P. Q. The one thing they fear above all others is the merging of their racial and cultural strain with the rest of Canada.

We mentioned the Creoles of Louisiana and suggested they hadn't fared badly in becoming American. The Abbe swiftly disagreed with us. The Louisiana French, he said, are the classic example of the evils of assimilation. We did not, of course, argue with him, since our mission in Quebec, intellectually speaking, was not to refute, but to understand.

But we couldn't help thinking of that snowbound discussion when we recently read "The River Road," a novel by Frances Parkinson Keyes. Its theme is the fortunes of an old French family who clung to their way of life, refused to be daunted by changing times and remained on the once magnificent River Road after most of their neighbors had given up and departed. Belle Heloise—even the source of its name was lost in the mists of the past—had been the home of the D'Alverys for generations. The book opens with the return to a hero's welcome, at the end of World War I, of Gervais D'Alvery, its young master. His mother has planned a marriage for him with Regine, daughter of the nearby Hathaways. But Gervais goes into the squalid environment of Baton Rouge for his bride, the beautiful Meredith Randall, Protestant, and secretary to Mr. Goldenberg, owner of a large department store.

The chronicle of Belle Heloise winds on through three generations. Following the War there is a period of high sugar prices. Gervais is rich enough, he thinks, to buy new machinery and build several outbuildings. He has more imagination than judgment and when sugar goes to ten cents a pound, and even lower, Belle Heloise is threatened with foreclosure. The intelligent and worldly-wise cousin Fabian comes to the rescue.

There are many stories within the story. The early indiscretion of Cresside with Sylvestre Tremaine results in the birth of an illegitimate son. His identity is concealed and the world believes him the son of Gervais and Meredith. Regine Hathaway snatches the weak Sylvestre. Their life of idleness and mutual dislike leads to a tragic conclusion when Sylvestre murders her for fear she has learned the story of the illegitimacy; soon afterward dying himself. Cresside finds happiness with Fabian, whose deformity is forgotten in his wisdom and understanding. The youngest son of the D'Alverys dies as the result of a hunting trip into which his father has forced him against his will. Meredith leaves Gervais, and becomes manager of a Paris fashion bureau for Mr. Goldenberg.

The problems of the next generation are beginning. Against her family's will, the daughter marries the son of an Italian peddler who has built a fortune. Philogene marries the girl his brother loves, but is killed in World War II. The daughter of Cresside marries a young Irishman, pilot of a ship, but her happiness ends with his death on their wedding night. There is a strong political element. Gervais, as a member of the State Legislature, runs foul of Huey Long in the 'teah. Fabian saves him but only on the understanding that he will leave politics to wiser heads. A blight threatens the whole sugar cane industry. Belle Heloise is saved because the shrewd Fabian—once again a deus ex machina—has had the foresight to import a resistant strain from abroad. Gervais returns from the War an invalid. Meredith, back for her daughter's wedding, finds she cannot leave and takes up life at Belle Heloise once again.

World-wide Food Shortage Causes Truman Appeal for Home Food Gardens Again

Because of the world-wide food scarcity, President Truman has called on Victory gardeners to continue in 1946 the home production of vegetables which added so much to the national food supply during the war.

The President's appeal will take many gardeners by surprise, and cause them to change their plans, if they had expected to convert their vegetable plots to flowers this spring. It is recognized that only a serious emergency would have caused the appeal.

Reports of reduced commercial production and higher costs have been widely current, and predictions of a curtailed pack of canned goods have been made. The President's appeal asks for both production and preserving of food by amateurs, just as during the war, in order to increase the country's total supply. Forty per cent of this total in war years was credited to Victory gardens.

Immediate steps to inaugurate a government campaign to back up the President's appeal were taken by Secretary Anderson, who named Paul C. Stark of Missouri director of the National Garden Program and head of a committee to plan the department of agriculture's participation in the campaign.

Mr. Stark will also maintain liaison with other agencies involved, both governmental and private. The program will be carried forward in the various localities by working through the State Extension Services and other established agencies.

Commenting on the plans for this year, the President said: "During the war period, gardening further demonstrated its value to our people in many ways. The splendid response to the appeal for more home-produced food was an important factor in making it possible during the war for the people of this country to be better fed than before the war while supplying the best-fighting forces in the world and providing essential food supplies to our allies. The threat of starvation in many parts of the world and the urgent need for food from this country emphasize the importance of continued effort to add to our total food supply this year."

"A continuing program of gardening will be of great benefit to our people. In addition to the contribution gardens make to better nutrition, their value in providing outdoor physical exercise, recreation and relaxation from the strain of modern life is widely recognized. The Department of Agriculture through a long-time garden program can do much to encourage more attractive home surroundings and improved community development; and can provide a large body of citizens with much needed assistance in home gardening."

Material Witness In Erie Murder Case In Jail Here

Violet Eleanor Tarbell, material witness in the gangster slaying of Robert Fischer was held in the Warren County Jail Thursday night, taken back to Erie on Friday and then whisked away to the State Police Barracks at Butler.

The girl was arrested with Mike Dominic, charged with being one of the murderers.

Dominic has confessed to police after his arrest at Savannah, Ga., that he disposed of the body of Fischer after he had been killed by an ex-prize fighter and his sister had taken the wallet and other possessions of the dead man. After disposing of the body he fled from Erie with the Tarbell woman and reached Savannah where FBI men picked them up.

The girl is being held as a material witness and the officers did not wish to lock her up in the Erie county jail where Millie Thomas, sister of the killer is incarcerated.

To that end it had been planned to bring her to the Warren county jail where she could be questioned hours on end by police. News that she had been brought to Warren leaked out and it was decided to take her to Butler.

Sgt. Willard Schauer, of the State Police is grilling the woman and he refuses to say just where the woman is and he told Erie newsmen "I've got her."

Relative to the case in Erie newspaper says that many motives might account for the murder and have advanced several theories. Theft of a set of plans which Fischer tried to have patented, sale of "reefers", theft of cars, etc., all enter into the case.

Jail attaches here are reluctant to admit that Miss Tarbell was in the Warren jail but finally admit that she was here.

It is believed that Sergeant Schauer is grilling Miss Tarbell for hours on end. It was he, with the assistance of Corp. C. M. Mathis, state police, and John Coates, acting county detective, who sweated a statement from her out of Dominic in Savannah. And it was on the basis of a phone call made Sergeant Schauer from Savannah that the charge of being an accessory against the alleged corpse-barbering Millie Thomas was changed to murder.

Millie's arraignment on the new charge will not be held until the first of the week, Mr. McLaughlin said. He revealed also that a charge of larceny has been filed against her. She is accused of rolling over Fischer's corpse in the basement of 1212 W. 26th St. and taking his wallet from his pocket.

Mr. McLaughlin said also that the scheduled arraignment before Alderman William Heisler of Dominic and Mike Bubna, the other accused man, Monday will be postponed to a later date while more scientific evidence is obtained against the pair.

He said also that friends and relatives have secured the services of Mortimer E. Graham, prominent Erie attorney, for the defense of Dominic. Bubna and Millie are represented by Attorney John Blackmore. A vigorous conflict between the two lawyers appears in the offing since Dominic has accused Bubna of being the triggerman in his desperate effort to clear himself of all blame in the actual killing.

The sphinx-like Bubna, who has been in Erie County only eight months and reportedly used to box in New York City, has said nothing against Dominic so far as can be learned.

What your RED CROSS Chapter does in Warren County

YOU KNOW what the Red Cross has done overseas in World War II. The World knows it. Another glorious page in the history of your Red Cross is being written.

Each of the 3,754 chapters in the nationwide Red Cross network . . . just as our local chapter . . . did its full share to make possible all the help and comfort given our fighting men. But that is only half the story. Here is what your Red Cross chapter is doing now and will be doing for years to come.

Disaster Relief. In the United States last year, the Red Cross gave relief in 260 disasters. Experience has shown that no community is immune. Our local chapter has a disaster committee set up and ready to act at the initial warning of catastrophe . . . to provide emergency shelter, food, clothing, and medical care for the helpless victims . . . to save lives and relieve suffering. And after the first shock has worn away, comes the long job of rehabilitation.

Home Service. The Red Cross Home Service worker is a home town troubleshooter for the serviceman and his family. Our Red Cross chapter has Home Service workers available for duty day or night . . . trained, practical people, equipped to act in emergencies. The Red Cross two-way communication system reaches around the world, so that in a sense the serviceman is no further from his loved ones than our Red Cross chapter.

First Aid. A crash on the highway . . . a slashed wrist . . . severe shock without proper attention, all can produce serious results. Our chapter in cooperation with individuals and organizations maintains mobile first aid units and highway first aid stations manned by trained first aiders, who help care for the victims of traffic accidents until the doctor arrives. First aid, water safety, and accident prevention classes are conducted throughout the country.

THINK of the many thousands who look to our Red Cross for aid and comfort in lonely hours of desperate need. Think what its many services and safeguards can mean to our town . . . to you, and your loved ones. Then remember that your voluntary services, backed up by your contributions, make it possible for Red Cross to carry on in our community. Your individual gifts are its only source of income. Without you and your neighbors, there would be no Red Cross. Give to the Red Cross today.

YOUR Red Cross MUST CARRY ON . . .

DARK POWER

BY ELISABETH HOLDING

Chapter 7
It was raining the next morning, and as Di awoke, she lay in bed, looking out at the gray sky, depressed and disheartened as she had never been before in her life.

"Only seven days more!" she told herself. "Perhaps only six—if he counts yesterday. I can certainly stand it for that long." She dressed and went downstairs. She passed the swing-door by which she had seen Wren pass in and out, pushed it open, found herself in a pantry, went through that and found the kitchen.

Wren was standing at the sink. "Good-morning!" she said.

"Good-morning, Miss," he said.

"Did you manage to get a chance to post my letter?" she asked.

"Yes, Miss. The night you gave it to me."

"Then perhaps—" she said.

"Has the mail come this morning?"

"Yes, Miss."

"Nothing for me?"

"No, Miss."

"Suppose a letter had come and I didn't get it?" she thought.

It was a mistake to think of things like that; she opened the front door and stepped out on the covered porch, with the instinct to seek in the open air a solace for her vague fears and doubts.

From the sodden ground, from the woods, came the fresh, cool fragrance of Spring; the sky was gray, but it was not sad out here. She drew in a deep breath, and began to reason with herself.

"I've promised to stay a week," she thought. "And I've got to stop being so morbid and silly. There's nothing."

"Breakfast, Miss," said Wren, from the doorway.

Just as she had finished, Aunt Emma appeared.

"Do you care to work a little this morning?" she asked, dryly.

"Glad to!" said Diana, and they went upstairs together.

"Can you take dictation?" asked Aunt Emma.

"Not in shorthand. But I can manage pretty well in longhand, if you don't go too fast."

"I shan't go too fast," said Aunt Emma, with a chilly smile.

Her subject was "suggestibility" and her theory was unpleasant. She spoke of the "average" human being, and Di felt completely average herself. This average being, said Aunt Emma, does not act from instinct, as is popularly believed.

"By a proper use of suggestion," she said, "a superior mind can, with very little effort, exercise complete dominance over an unlimited number of average minds."

"Do you mean—" said Di apologetically, "that you can make other people do things?"

"I can," said Aunt Emma, "I do."

"Not me!" thought Di.

"Yes," said Aunt Emma, as if the girl had spoken aloud. "You too."

DIANA said no more, and they worked together until lunch time. No one else appeared at the table but Di and Aunt Emma, but when they had finished, and went into the lounge, Uncle Rufus was coming slowly down the stairs. He was still wearing the checked cap, the overcoat and muffler.

"Good-morning!" said Di. "Are you going out?"

"No!" he said, so sharply as to startle her. "I want to speak to you, when your aunt is out of the way."

Aunt Emma paid no attention to this; she lit a cigarette, and went over to the door and opened it. A current of cool, sweet air blew in, stirring her gray hair.

"The rain is over," she remarked, and stood there, smoking in calm satisfaction, until her cigarette was finished. Then she walked up the stairs.

Uncle Rufus settled himself back in his chair.

"Now, see here, my girl!" he began. "Come nearer! There! Now I want you to know that it'll be well worth your while to look after me."

"I wish you wouldn't talk like that!" she protested. "I'll be glad to keep you company, but I don't want anything for it."

He leaned forward and stared at her. She had not yet had a good look at his face, and even now she saw only his piercing eyes under bushy eyebrows.

"I can't believe that!" he said.

"Please don't mind my saying it—but don't you think it's a mistake to be so suspicious?"

He gave a thin, little laugh.

"Suspicious?" he said. "Look here! Put your hand on this cap."

She touched it, and found it stuffed with some sort of wadding. Then he began to unwind his muffler, the length of which surprised her; it went round his neck three times.

"See?" he said.

"But I don't—"

"Hard for anyone to choke me with this on," he said, re-winding the muffler about his neck.

"And this cap would considerably deaden the force of a blow on the head."

"Oh! You're mistaken!" she cried. "Nobody—"

"You don't know 'em," said he. "And I do. I always carry a good bit of money with me, in case I should suddenly fall ill. Might not be able to speak—but my money'd speak for me. I shouldn't be carted off to die in a public ward with that in my pocket. So far, my loving family here have been considerate because they're hoping I'll change my will and leave 'em something. But if ever they felt sure I wouldn't do that, then they'd get rid of me, for the sake of what's in my pocket."

"But if you think such horrible things, why do you come here?"

"I'm old," he said. "I haven't anyone. When I was young, I didn't care. I didn't want anyone. But now I'm old. I need someone!" He caught her sleeve. "I want to trust someone!" he cried.

"And I can't! If I could trust you—if I thought you'd stand by me—I'd leave it all to you! All that money!"

Home Nursing. The Red Cross teaches the fundamentals of home nursing to many citizens. They learn how to care for simple illnesses, under the doctor's direction.

Junior Red Cross. Boys and girls learn first aid, accident prevention, water safety, nutrition, and home nursing in order to become citizens of tomorrow.

Volunteer Special Services. Your neighbor next door or just around the corner is probably a member of one of the many Red Cross Volunteer Corps. She may sew or knit for our hospitalized men; she may drive for the Motor Corps; she may be a Nurse's Aide or a Gray Lady. Perhaps she's a Staff Assistant, or a Home Service worker . . . but whatever corps she serves . . . whatever she does . . . her time and effort help stretch the Red Cross dollar.

DRAGONS DEFEAT SHARPSVILLE, ENTER QUARTER-FINALS

Dick Harris Scores in Last 15 Seconds To Give Warren 33-32 Win, District Title

Warren's Dragon basketballers qualified for a place in the PIAA quarter-final playoffs, to be played next Friday night, by edging the Sharpsville Blue Devils, 33-32, Friday night at Farrell High. The victory not only gave the students of Joe Massa a quarter-final berth, but a District Ten championship, the first for a local outfit in three attempts and the first for a Section Two winner since 1922.

A one-handed push shot by forward Dick Harris with only fifteen seconds remaining in the game gave the Dragons their victory by a one-point margin.

All-State forward Paul Davison tied the game at 31 apiece and then shoved his team out in front, 32-31, on a pair of charity tosses. Harris dribbled up the floor and let loose with a one-hander that swished the nets and put the Dragons in the lead once again.

Davison trotted to the foul line again with only two seconds remaining, but he missed the attempt and the ball was in a tie-up when the whistle sounded.

The victory sends the District Ten champions against either Kane, District Nine titleholder, or Allegheny, District 8 victor. The two will meet Tuesday night at Punxsutawney, and the victor will take the game to Friday in the quarter-finals. Kane is favored to upset the Pittsburgh city series winner.

By drawing a bye in the playoffs between districts, the Dragons will be one of eight teams remaining in the battle for state supremacy come Friday night. Out of the eleven district champions, three will be eliminated on Tuesday, with four more facing defeat on Friday and Saturday.

Some 3300 fans watched the local cagers battle the former District champions Friday night in frenzy that kept the followers of both teams sad one minute and happy the next. The score was deadlocked at nine different times during the thirty-two minute session, and the lead changed hands seven different times.

Sharpsville turned in the first score Friday, but Warren evened it up to start a see-saw first period battle. Davison, gunning the light Dragon zone defense, hit consistently to keep his mates in the game. When the first eight minutes rolled past, the Dragons had come out with a 10-7 margin.

The Dragons jumped their lead to 12-8 in the opening seconds of the second stanza, but Davison cut three straight double-deckers through the nets to put Sharpsville in front, 14-12. Harris hit for long set, and big Jack Eaton and Alan Babcock added two-pointers to offset Joe Ferrari's side shot and give the Dragons a two-point lead at the mid-way mark, 18-16.

Eaton, whose powerful board work was a leading factor in the Dragons' first half attack, was ejected from the game with 20 seconds remaining before the half.

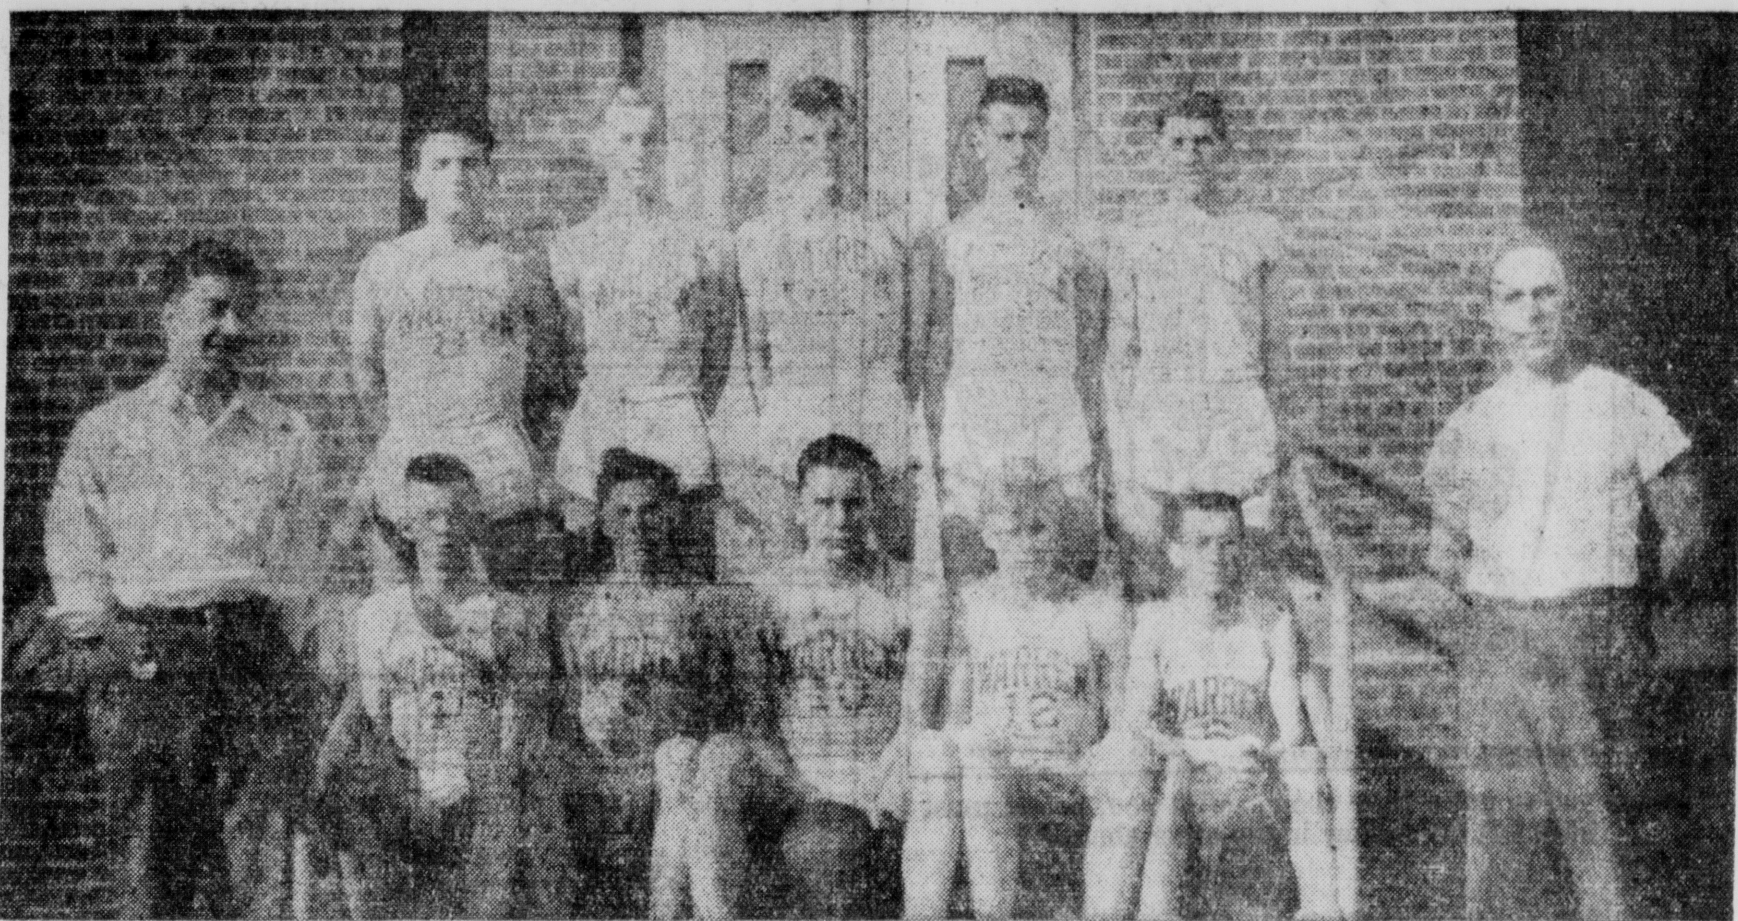

The loss of Eaton was almost a mortal wound, but Harris and Babcock set the third quarter aflame with two sets apiece. Davison collected three and Ernie added two in the third quarter ended with the Dragons flashing a 28-21 lead.

Before Warren could manage a single point, Sharpsville had

MILITARY FUNERAL IS GIVEN CANINE HERO

Philadelphia, March 18—(AP)—Blackie, a little five-year-old Labrador retriever, probably never dreamed it would happen to him but served World War II Veterans—his pals during 32 months of Pacific fighting—paid him final homage yesterday, a burial with full military honors.

An unofficial "technical sergeant" attached to the 282nd coast artillery of the 10th American army, Blackie was buried in the Cheltenham pet cemetery. A Legion Drum and Bugle Corps played "Taps" as his master, James Dardario of Philadelphia, placed a tiny stone on his grave.

Blackie's army file—the battalion kept his personal history record—shows he was AWOL only once. It also says he left 10 heirs in the Pacific.

Initial Concert Exchange Is Presented In Bradford

Plans progress for the entertainment of the Bradford High School Owls on Friday of this week, when Rodney A. Schoch and his students come here for a full day of rehearsal with the Warren High School Dragons and a combined concert in Beatty gym at eight o'clock in the evening.

Performing for the first time before an audience after several weeks of intensive rehearsal as separate units before combining, the two bands played last Friday evening in Bradford High School before a crowd of 1300 persons. Concerning the concert, the Bradford Era of Saturday says:

George Bell, principal of Bradford Senior High, introduced the visiting band leader, Harry A. Summers, who led the two bands during the first half of the program. From Mr. Summers the baton was passed to the leader of the local band, Rodney A. Schoch, who conducted the bands during the remainder of the evening.

A baritone solo, "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," by Goldman, was rendered by Herman H. Slayman, a member of the Penn State Blue Band. Mr. Slayman, who was recently discharged from the armed services, is now finishing his musical education as a senior at Pennsylvania State College. During the evening he was also guest conductor, leading the two bands in "Teddy Bear's Picnic," by Bratton.

Tom Bromley was student narrator for a comic travelogue entitled "Swanee River," by Bennett. This satire was a demonstration of how in different sections of the United States Stephen Foster's famous song, "Swanee River" is played. It was represented as a march played the same everywhere in the States; hill-billy, as played in the Ozarks of Southern Mo.; New Orleans the sleepy city of brotherly love, during this number the band did not play, but pantomimed a very sleepy band; San Antonio, Tex., and Hollywood, this rendition was given as a swing number and the members of the bands wore small paper hats resembling those worn at New Year's parties. Old hats were worn for the hill-billy version.

The proceeds of last evening's program will be divided between the schools. Bradford's share will be given to the Bradford Band Fund and to the Sophomore class.

Arriving here yesterday morning the Warren band rehearsed with the local band for approximately five hours. Following the rehearsal the visiting band members were honored at a dance given them by the sophomore class. The dance was held in the gymnasium and refreshments were served.

Joseph Walker, debating instructor, coached the student narrator. On April 4, 5 and 6th, 30 members of the Bradford band will play at a concert in Philipsburg, Pa. One hundred and seventy-five band students from central Pennsylvania will play during this concert. The thirty band members from Bradford were chosen from approximately 1,000 Pennsylvania students who were eligible to play.
